

Resources about Down Syndrome for the Medical Professional

Informational Web Sites

www.downsyndromediagnosis.org

The National Center for Prenatal and Postnatal Down Syndrome Resources at the University of Kentucky's Human Development Institute oversees three medically reviewed programs that complement each other in providing important resources and information for new and expectant parents learning about a diagnosis of Down syndrome: Brighter Tomorrows, Lettercase, and Down Syndrome Pregnancy. These programs also offer valuable resources for medical professionals delivering those diagnoses.

The National Center provides this clearinghouse of professionally recommended resources so that medical practitioners, expectant parents, and new parents have access to accurate, up-to-date, and balanced information about Down syndrome.

<http://pediatrics.aappublications.org/content/128/2/393.full.pdf>

American Academy of Pediatrics – Health Supervision for Children with Down Syndrome

www.ndsan.org

The National Down Syndrome Adoption Network is a non-profit program that offers support and information to parents whose child has received a diagnosis of Down syndrome, and may be considering an adoption plan for their child. If they choose adoption for their child, we have a registry of over 200 families from all over the United States who are interested in adopting a child with Down syndrome within the US. There are no fees for our services.

National and Local Organization Web Sites

www.dsagsl.org

Down Syndrome Association of Greater St. Louis

www.ndss.org

National Down Syndrome Society

www.ndsc.org

National Down Syndrome Congress

www.aap.org

The American Academy of Pediatrics

www.acog.org

American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

www.smfm.org

Society for Maternal-Fetal Medicine